TEMPORE DEPORT

S. 132, 134 THRO St. 18 to 5.

A crowd of seven or eight hundred men, with brase bands and torches, paraded the streets of Portland on Monday nigh. Several bunders young hoodlums, attracted by the noise, accompanied them Quite a crowd of reputable coll-Zens came out into the streets, in different parts of the city, to book at the procession as it passed, mainly for the purpose of nonng what people they were who composed it. It was seen at once that the great body of the procession was made as of section of the procession when the procession was made as of section when the procession was presented as of section when the procession was processed as the procession was presented as the procession was presented as the procession was processed as the procession was processed as the procession was processed as the procession when the procession was processed as the processed as the processed as the processed as the procession was processed as the proces seem as once that the great body of the proves-sion was made up of persons wholly unknown here. Men who are largest employers of labor and who know the working men of Portland thoroughly, units in saying that this er wi was made up almost entirely of nen who are u t and never have been identified with the more ing classes of Portland, and moreover that they never saw them before. Two of these old citi-zens, who have had more to do with employing laborers in Poiltand during many years past than any other men we know, tell us that the resilient laborers of Portlanti were not in the procession, nor even represented in it. Both of these old citizens, who know the working men of Portland so well as to be able to identify them anywhere, declare that not twents men in the line were known to them. The greater number were vagrates, un toubtedly, who have been congregating here from all parts of the

It is a deep injustice to the quiet, in listing and law abiding workingous of Portlan I to try to nake it appear that they are in sympathy with and are giving their support to this enterp ise of disorder, lawleseness and violence mayement under the leader slip of arresponsible brawlers, and depending for its numbers on tamps and vagrants, can be we no identification with the true workingmen of the country with the true workingmen of the country, Meet of the resident workingmen of lording have perpetty fee. They kind a stake in the peace and good name of the city. Then children met mit a public school's and they are desirons of bringing them up o recognition and sirous of bringing them up o recognition and observance of the duties of good citizenship. They don't want their descendants to become tramps and variants, and therefore they wish to teach them the virtues of rail relying in his try. These virtues they kick are not to be learned ty following the irresponsible river times who lead this heaving and lawless movement. They know, too, and want their children to learn that no resources me to be found in these unnatural and turbulent proceedings that to follow suck enders is to enter ness, and that the only was L cancer is to entry upon a life of vagrancy and ganeral worlthesness, and that the only was L which mea can hope to live with credit or to arrive at independence and prosperity is to turn a deaf out to all mountelanks and attend to their own base.

These principles apply to all men, but hey are of far more value to be man of humble means than to the than of large wealth because they who bave riches can take care of them se ves in any circumstance, while they who must support themselves and their families by their own evertions, as most of us must, can do so only as peace and order, under the synction of law, prevail. The growth and success of in dustries that supply wages depend on the pres ervation of peace and the absence of conditions that endanger investments of capital Again, the same law that protects the bondholder's wealth protects the small prope ties of the wark ing people, and so to their respective owners the 18 often of more real value than the pslatial mansion, because the one more nearly represents than the other the owner's all. Pert land's working people are and have it age been good chizens—none better. They are ready now to support the principles of live and order and mean to do it. With the purposes of these foreign trainps and recorporable allow understanding the programme is insturbance of the peace and violation of the law, hey have no kind of sympathy, and they will respond with all the ardor of good chizens to any call-for preser vation of the peace of the community and vindication of the law against, the lawless vagrants who have been gathering in here to a supposed palatial mansion, because the one more nearly who have been gathering in here to a supposed feast of rost and spod

The name of N Versteeg is on the committee of fifteen, appointed at the rabile mass meeting on Monday night, to go around among the Chinese of Portland to terrorice and intumdate them, and, under implied threats of violence and even of nurder, to compel them to leave the country There is a sil, attempt to mask the purpose under milder words, but this is just nounts to. The object, if not to do violence and murder, is to make the Chinese think that violence and murder are to be dove

Mr. Versteeg is at present a director of the cordinary public schools and is a candidate for selection. It is now highly necessary for him o inform the public whether his name is on that lawless committee by his own consent, or not. If so, no decent and law-abiling citizen can vote for him foreshool director if not, the use of his name to bolstering aw-defing outrage is an affront to honorable citizenship and cannot be two quickly resented by himself The floating population that has drifted upto

Portland and given this lawless enterprise the support of such numbers as it has, will not elect our school directors. They are not tax payers, and consequently not poters at a school

Mr. Vensteeg should take the floor. A word from him would be timely, and unquestionably in order (nod citizens want b) know not only whether he is going out upon this lawless errand or not, but also whether he approves it or not His example on this subject, holding as he does the position of a director of public education and being a candid the for re-election, is an important one for our children and youth Mr. Versteeg, good chizens want to hear from

The depth of infamy that can checkle over a thing of this kind is fathomless If a bank should be entered and robbed in dead of might, the Portland News is in a position to beast of it as an achievement whose success was gained "while the watchmen slept at their posts." Journalism at once so immeral and or ninal can have no permanent place among a decent and law-a ding people.
